

Hope

I hope for the wars,
To stop or delay.
I hope the world,
Doesn't fade away

The things I hope for,
Just wont stop.
They keep coming,
Like the ticking of a clock.

I hope Africa,
Will have clean water today.
So people wont walk,
20 miles a day.

Their water is murky,
Yet ours is clear.
Children are dying,
And that I fear.

I hope black people,
Have their say.
I hope America,
Has happier days.

The world is warming,
Forest fires rage.
This earth isn't home,
And we're to blame

Will generations see this,
50 years today?
#BLM would be nonexistent,
The media, hides it away.

I hope people stop,
Global warming.
The ice-caps are melting,
Every morning.

So before you go,
And flip the page.
This world is in danger,
And we're to blame...
